Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

The aerial photograph of the site of the Armco plant on which will locate here was a problem which taxed the ingenuity of a Record-Herald photographer.

The newspaper received word Tuesday that the company would release a story. An effort was made immediately to get an aerial photo of the site.

Tuesday was a cloudy day. This didn't disturb the photographer too much. What really raised some perplexities was the fact that he had never taken a picture from the air before.

Arrangements were made with Mrs. Heken Williams, who operates an airport on the New Holland Road, to fly the photographer. Before the plane took off there was some real concern expressed about the camera falling out of the window.

"You'd better tie it with something," Mrs. Williams told the picture taker.

"You can lean out this window and shoot," the pilot said pointing to the window to use.

When the plane was at 1,000 feet a few minutes later, that window looked mighty small. It was a difficult job to lean out of it and tugged at the camera which battled with the stream.

Several passes were made over the site. Each time the photographer squinted and tried to see through a "peep sight" hooked to the camera which jerked in the breeze.

Afterwards, when he was on the ground, he kept his aerial venture pretty much a secret, feeling that he may have "shot" the wrong cow pasture.

He wasn't too far wrong in this assumption. The picture left out part of the site. But the photographer got back safely on the ground.

Fitch Principal Speaker

Fred J. Milligan, Columbus attorney, was elected to his third term as council president. Others elected were:

Wesley Fesler, Ohio State University, commissioner; Scott Krauss, 360 N. Front St., treasurer; and three vice-presidents, O. E. Hill 1641 Grenoble Road; George O. Doyle, 122 S. High St.; and D. R. Smith, Delaware.

President Milligan reported that the Central Ohio Area, comprising nine counties now has a total enrollment of an all-time high of 13,080 boys and adult leaders representing a 15.8% increase over last year.

James P. Fitch, assistant to the Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, formerly of Columbus, was the principal speaker. He told of his work as general manager of Philmont Properties, which includes the Philmont office Building in Tulsa, Oklahoma and the 130,000 acre Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, New Mexico.

Communist Probe Opens in Capital

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged today that a state department employee, Dorothy Kenyon, "has been affiliated with at least 28 Communist-front organizations."

McCarthy made the accusation before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee at the opening of an inquiry into McCarthy's charges that a Communist spy ring is operating in the state department.

The hearing got off to an uproarious start with Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) promising McCarthy:

"You are going to get one of the most complete investigations in the history of this country."

In the Senate recently, McCarthy detailed the cases of 81 persons he said are bad security risks. He named no names but said they either now or formerly were in the state department.

City Income Tax Upheld by Court

Some Require Vote Of People, However

COLUMBUS, March 8—(AP)—

The Ohio Supreme Court unanimously upheld the right of cities to levy an income tax today.

The court said the Toledo city income tax of one percent was all right.

But, the court threw out a one-half of one percent tax in the city of Dayton. Dayton's charter required that the tax be approved by the voters -- and the voters did not pass on it, the court explained.

The court did not rule on the payroll income taxes levied by a number of other Ohio cities. But, by implication, this seems to be the situation:

If your city has no city charter requiring a vote by the people, the income tax in your city is valid.

No Ruling on Pay-back

And, the court did not rule on whether the city of Dayton must pay back the $2,000,000 collected by its income tax in the last 11 months.

The court held that cities have the power to levy income taxes under constitutional home-rule powers.

The court held that the state has not taken over the income tax field, although the state constitution gives the legislature the power to set up a state income tax.

The legislature never has levied such a tax.

The court also held that the legislature may limit the power of cities to levy and collect an income tax. But, the legislature has not so limited.

City officials studied the decisions closely, for a financial crisis faces cities with invalid taxes.

The festival runs March 30-April 2.

Chamber of Commerce Gets Results

Getting New Industry Big Job

Editor's note: (Following the announcement Wednesday that the Armco plant was coming to Washington C. H., the Record-Herald sought to find out the behind the scenes story—the work which the Chamber of Commerce here did to make this big event an actuality. The story of Armco's coming is told below.)

It started one day before Christmas in 1949, when an engineer from Armco walked into the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce here and said his plant was interested in expanding and wanted some facts about this city.

C. E. McCarty, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, describing the event now recalls: "I almost dropped off my chair."

The engineer was specific. His company might be interested in a 15 to 20 acre site, located on a railroad and facing the highway, outside the city limits but close enough to get sewage, gas and electric services.

That was a big order. It meant detailed work, with plenty of secrecy. The company didn't want word of its inquiry to leak out. This is common when an industry is looking over a city.

"Mac" took the president of the board of directors of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce, A. E. Weatherby, into his confidence.

Work Quietly on Project

And from that day on the pair worked quietly to make the industry's coming here an actuality. As the project moved along they took the board into their confidence too, then enlisted the help of city and county officials, businessmen and many others.

Getting a site which would meet the exacting requirements of Armco was one of the most difficult jobs. Four were looked over. But the company turned each one down for some reason or another—not on a highway, crossed by a railroad or for some other drawback.

There were discouraging days and nights, when hope would fade, when it appeared that Washington C. H. would not get another industry.

Then one day the Armco officials agreed to go a little farther out of the city. Chamber of Commerce officials looked over two sites beyond the National Cash Register plant.

The one finally selected was not (Please Turn To Page Two)

Curb on Strikes Is Wanted, too

Expansion Sought For Coal Survey

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—

President Truman's request for a commission to study the coal industry today ran into Republican proposals that the survey include ways to deal with critical strikes.

The suggestions for broadening Mr. Truman's program came from GOP Senators Butler of Nebraska and Watkins of Utah.

Both are members of the Senate interior committee. That group plans to hold hearings on the president's plan and on similar legislation introduced earlier by Senators Humphrey (D-Minn.), Morse (R-Ore.) and Douglas (D-Ill.).

In a letter yesterday to Vice President Barkley and House Speaker Rayburn, Mr. Truman withdrew the mine seizure bill which he sent to Congress last Friday before settlement of the coal strike.

At the same time he renewed his request for the coal study commission and submitted a bill to provide for it.

Butler noted that the president, in outlining the scope of the proposed study, said nothing about having the commission look for a more effective way to deal with national emergency strikes.

BACK TO NORMALCY

PITTSBURGH, March 8—(AP)—The nation's railroads recalled thousands of furloughed workers as the government removed most of the schedule curtailment ordered during the recent soft coal strike.

Steel and other affected industries also headed their stalled production toward normal.

United Mine Worker members in virtually all the soft coal fields were back in the mines digging needed coal.

Sentenced for Arson

YOUNGSTOWN, March 8—(AP)—James Filban, 26, of suburban Struthers, today faced an indeterminate term in Mansfield Reformatory for arson in a fire that killed two persons in Struthers last fall.

Squabble over Price Supports Develops into Class Warfare

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—Agriculture's internal squabble over what kind of farm price supports the government should have is taking on some of the characteristics of class warfare.

As some participants see it, the fight is one of big farmers against little farmers.

Attempt to classify the conflicting forces in this manner are showing up in current debates over farm price supports. The debates are growing in intensity of feeling; they promise to add to the importance of the farm problem as an issue in this year's congressional elections.

Splitting agriculture--as well as other groups interested in federal farm aid programs--is the question of whether the government should junk its present price support program in favor of one advanced by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and warmly endorsed by President Truman.

Leading the fight for the present program and the opposition to the Brannan Plan is President Alan B. Kline of the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation.

Brannan says that the present program would force the little farmers out of agriculture and leave the industry to the big operators.

Midwest Battered By Vicious Storms

Blizzards of Snow and Dust Virtually Paralyze Vast Areas

(By The Associated Press)

The winter-weary midwest staggered today from another round of crippling climatic blows.

Snows, sleet, gales and blizzards whipped over areas from the northern plains into Iowa and headed for Lake Michigan. A mass of cold air followed in the wake of the blustery, cold March weather.

Hundreds of towns were isolated with business nearly paralyzed. Highway travel was virtually halted in many areas. Scores of schools were closed. Many motorists and some school children were stranded in parts of the blizzard belt. Damage to property was extensive.

Family Wiped Out In Flaming Cabin

SANDY, Ore., March 8—(AP)—A family of eight died in a flaming one-room mill cabin near here today.

The roaring fire apparently started on the small building's north side—the only one with a door.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy A. Ludwig and their six children died in the trap.

The cabin was one of 14 housing workers at the Wilson sawmill. Sandy is 20 miles east of Portland. Carl Wilson, owner of the mill, said his barking dog awakened him at 1:15 A. M. and he looked out to discover the fire.

"It all happened so fast there was no chance to do a thing," Wilson said.

He called the fire department, but the cabin was leveled when firemen arrived.

Dancing in School To Be Put to Vote

SALEM, March 8—(AP)—Should student dances be allowed at the Goshen Union High School in nearby Damascus?

Most of the students say "yes." The school board always has said "no."

But now the board is apparently tired of being on the spot so long. And so adult residents in the school district will vote on the question Saturday.

15 Meet Death In Plane Crash

Two Children Die In Flaming Home

MINNEAPOLIS, March 8—(AP)—

Roaring through a blinding March blizzard, a Northwest Airlines plane crashed and exploded last night to convert a Minneapolis home into a blazing funeral pyre for 15 persons.

The ship carried ten passengers and a crew of three.

Two children, who had just been put to bed in the house the plane struck, were also trapped in the flaming inferno which spouted from the ship's sundered gasoline tanks. The rest of the family were watching television.

Originating at Washington D. C. the ship--on NEA flight 307--made stops at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Madison, Wis. It was scheduled to set down at Rochester, Minn., but that landing was prevented by the heavy weather and the craft was ordered into Minneapolis. It would have proceeded thence to Winnipeg, Manitoba via Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D.

The plane, a Martin 2-0-2 Mars, was trying for an instrument landing here in gusty winds and swirling snow.

Shipkov Sentenced By Bulgarian Court

LONDON, March 8—(AP)—Michael Shipkov, former Bulgarian translator of the U. S. legation in Sofia, was sentenced to 15 years in prison by a Bulgarian court today on his plea of guilty to spying for the United States.

The verdict of the people's court was reported in a broadcast of the Bulgarian News Agency.

Shipkov, tried with four others, had forecast his own abject confession in an affidavit released by the U. S. State Department two days before his trial began. His affidavit said he was tortured.

Mysterious Object Chased by Planes

DAYTON, Ohio, March 8—(AP)—An air National Guard plane chased a flying object over Municipal Airport today, but it was not of the saucer variety.

Two jet planes from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base also took off in the general direction of the object, but were unable to sight it. The radar screen could not pick up.

Offer of German Surrender Refused 13 Days Before End

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—President Truman refused a German surrender offer 13 days before World War II ended in Europe.

In reporting this, Admiral William D. Leahy, presidential aide, said the offer was made through Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Nazi storm troops, to the United States and Britain. Himmler said he was willing to surrender all German troops on the western front, including those in Holland, Denmark and Norway. Leahy recalls.

20-Acre Tract Is Acquired at Edge of City

$250,000 Building To Be Constructed; New Jobs for 50

A new $250,000 corrugated steel pipe manufacturing plant is to be constructed in Washington C. H. by Armco Drainage and Metal Products, Inc., a subsidiary of the Armco Steel Corp. of Middletown.

The announcement of the decision to locate the new plant here was made Wednesday by S. R. Ives, president of the Armco subsidiary, after he and other company officers had come here to clean up the last details of the arrangements.

The plant is to be put up on a 20-acre tract out South Fayette Street just beyond the city limits.

The property adjoins that of the National Cash Register Co. on the north and stretches from the highway back to the D T & I Railroad.

Construction will start, Ives said, as soon as the contracts can be let. Local labor, he added, will be used in the construction work.

"When our plant gets into operation, new jobs will be created for 50 men," Ives said. "We hope most of these will come from Washington C. H. and surrounding region."

Ives expressed the hope that the original unit may be the beginning of a larger plant.

"We believe," he said, "the demand for our pipe will continue to grow and hope that in the future it will be necessary to expand the plant to greatly increase the employment and size of the payroll."

Ives explained that the new plant is being constructed because the growing demand for corrugated pipe has already exceeded the capacity of the nearest Armco Drainage and Metal Products plant which is at Middletown, Washington C. H. was selected by reason of its central location, he said.

Armco Drainage and Metal Products operates 46 plants in the United States and Canada. All these plants are strategically located to best serve the demand for products made by the Armco subsidiary in the area served by the plant. They range in size from 35 to 40 employees to over 500.

The Washington C. H. plant will handle the 47th in the chain.

The plant building here will cover 26,000 square feet of floor area or considerably more than one-half acre. The building will (Please turn to Page Eight)

Dead Woman's Vein Demanded at Trial

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 8—(AP)—A demand that defense counsel for Dr. Hermann N. Sander turn over to the state the vein of Mrs. Abbie Borotto's left arm--a key exhibit of the "mercy death" murder trial--came today from the prosecutor.

Attorney General William L. Phiney implied the defense pathologist who performed the autopsy on the cancer-ravaged woman had withheld this important evidence.

Dr. Richard F. Ford, Harvard pathologist testifying for the defense, replied the state medical experts did not request the vein, which he said had collapsed several hours before Sander injected it into the woman's arm.

Phiney snapped he was requesting it now--and Chief Defense Counsel Louis E. Wyman agreed to turn it over.

New TV Tube Is Developed

LOS ANGELES, March 8—(AP)—A new kind of television tube which can change your television set into a color receiver has been developed by a University of Southern California professor.

Dr. Willard Geer, director of physics laboratories at USC, announced yesterday he had sold patent rights to Technicolor Corp. He says the tube can be used in present sets "without whirling disks, filters, mirrors, projection lenses or moving parts of any kind."

He estimated the cost at about a third of the set's original cost.

O'Neill Makes Hit in Speech To Rotarians

Interest of Young People Must Be Awakened, He Says

Awakening the interest of our young people in matters of government is one of the crying needs of the day if this country is to rise above the growing threat of statism and totalitarianism.

This thread of thought ran through an exceptionally interesting talk made before Rotarians and guests Tuesday at the Country Club by Hon. C. William O'Neill.

Hon. C. William O'Neill

prominent Marietta attorney and a former speaker of the House in the Ohio General Assembly.

O'Neill who has been a member of Ohio's legislature for 12 years and who holds a place of much influence in that body, is the present minority floor leader in the House.

Introduced by Attorney Ray Maddox as one of the rising younger men in the state who is giving valuable time and effort to public service, O'Neill was referred to as a strong possibility for attorney generalship of Ohio in the near future.

The speaker briefly discussed procedure and committee work in a body such as the Ohio General Assembly and added considerable humor to his talk by relating some of the unusual things which transpire during a legislative session.

He told how he had been teaching a class in Marietta College concerning make-up and procedures in government and how the young people in the class became so interested that they made surprising surveys in Marietta and discussed the results.

He pointed out some of the unimportant but unusual incidents and other matters which affect the thinking of many voters and cause them to become concerned with small things while losing sight of much more vital issues. He said that a committee hearing in the legislature to take up such a question as whether to remove quail from the song bird list, would get as many as 600 people to attend, in a highly argumentative attitude, while some hearing on a matter which would involve scores of millions of the people's money would find only the committee

Lustron Is Operated By Court Receiver

COLUMBUS, March 8—(P)—A court-appointed receiver for the Lustron Corp. today launched an effort to reduce operating expenses at the giant prefabricated housing firm.

As his first step, Clyde M. Foraker, receiver, said he would make an immediate plant survey to see if operating expenses of about $35,000 a day can be reduced.

During foreclosure proceedings in the court of Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation said Lustron was losing about $35,000 a day or approximately $175,000 for a five-day operating week.

Foraker, former chief of the field division in the local internal revenue office, was appointed receiver yesterday.

Foraker began his duties after resigning his government post and supplying $100,000 bond. He will be advised by two experts—D. W. Boylan, secretary-comptroller of Lustron since its inception members, professional lobbyists and a few politicians present.

"The legislative branch of government," said O'Neill, must be the bulwark of the people. So long as it remains no totalitarian group can take over."

Continuing he declared, "the highly dangerous trend in our government today is the high cost of inefficiency and waste. The taxpayer is not getting his money's worth from his tax dollar. Another element is the loss of control of our affairs at the local level."

"Our citizens with civic pride and integrity of purpose, especially our young people, must be inoculated with a genuine love of country and of our freedom system of government that will equal the zeal and enthusiasm of those who would like to destroy our system," he asserted.

After the speaker closed his remarks he was vigorously applauded and was highly congratulated by Rotary President Paul Pennington, who urged him to come again to continue his message.

During the business session Joseph Peters introduced the new Junior Rotarian Dick Rockwell. The outgoing member of this high school group, Everett Caplinger, expressed his thanks for his two weeks of attendance.

Harry Silcott, chairman of the March program committee, announced that next week's meeting would be a rural-urban event, held annually by the club with Dale Williams of Columbus as speaker. Members are urged to bring farmer friends as guests.

several years ago, and Paul Boardman, Cleveland Reconstruction Finance Corp. examiner who serviced Lustron notes.

The RFC also was granted a $36,593,969.93 judgement against Lustron—the full amount of the RFC claims. The government agency had loaned Lustron $37,500,000.

Lustron will continue to operate for 30 days under the receiver. Under the setup Lustron can not be sold without its consent until after a 45-day notice. The plan was devised by counsel for the RFC and Lustron.

SPRING

Spring is coming back again. With her bright, happy face. See how she frees the willing world From Winter's fast embrace.

Old Winter's hands fall off. Old Winter's reign is o'er; Let him return whence he came Now Spring is at the door.

Spring, with her glowing sunshine And with her gentle showers, Begins e'en now to waken up The lazy little flowers.

She wakes the flowers, she wakes the birds. She calls the butterflies; The very air's alive with sound Up to the bright blue skies.

And, oh, how the children bless her! What a true friend is she See how they throng the happy fields And greet her lovingly.

The beautiful rays of sunlight, Warm the hill and vale Giving life and beauty To wild flowers in the dale.

Tito a Shoo-in In Yugoslavia

First Election In 5 Years Near

By ALEX H. SINGLETON BELGRADE, March 8—(P)—Guess who will win Yugoslavia's first general elections in five years?

The answer is simple: Marshal Josip Broz Tito and his communist-dominated "people's front" party, of course. Not since Man O'War pounded down the stretch in 1920 has there been a surer bet.

And the reason is equally simple. There's no competition for Tito and his party in a country which once had as many parties as it now has republics.

Although Yugoslavia's new election laws permit anyone who can collect 100 signatures to become a candidate for parliament, there has been no sign as yet of any opposition emerging to challenge those who have the blessings of the "people's front."

The elections themselves on March 26, a Sunday as usual, are sure to be a shoo-in for Tito and his supporters.

Under the rules any person, male or female, over the age of 18 has the right to vote. The teenagers fought in the hills and in the woods during World War II and Yugoslavia decided that if they were old enough to fight they also were old enough to vote.

The voters will choose a total of 405 members of the lower house of parliament and 215 of the upper house, picking them from their own district. Roughly the two houses compare with the House of Representatives and the Senate in the United States.

There are no literacy requirements. A voter doesn't have to know how to read or write. All he has to do is to make up his mind for or against and in this election that shouldn't be difficult.

The regulations provide that the voter, upon entering the balloting room, is given a small rubber ball. He drops this into a cushioned box for the candidate of his choice—or in an opposition box. He or she is required to plunge a closed hand into all the boxes and then—at the end of the line—to display an unclenched fist to show the ballot has been cast.

At day's end the rubber balls are counted to determine the margin of victory. Best guess here is that it will be about 97 or 98 per cent in favor of the people's government.

Price Supports Blamed for Egg And Milk Surplus

DENVER, March 8—(P)—Farm price supports are pricing eggs and milk out of the reach of Americans, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said last night.

"We must get eggs to market at a fair price or tell American farmers to quit producing them," he told the national farmers union convention.

The farmers union presented Brannan its 1949 award for outstanding service to American agriculture for his farm program.

It would substitute direct payments to farmers for price supports.

The per capita consumption of milk is not far from its depression level, Brannan said, while the government has the equivalent of two to two and a half billion pounds of whole milk it bought to keep prices high.

Americans ate 11 eggs less per capita last year than in 1948, he said, yet the government has about 210 million dozen eggs stored in caves.

Brannan cited these as two examples of why his plan should be adopted.

Diversified Crops and the Farm Problem

Not all potato areas go on growing more and more potatoes year after year and selling them to the government, as the city-dwelling taxpayer might conclude from reports of events of recent months. A recent account of farming in one county in an eastern state shows rapidly increasing diversification of crops, partly as a result of less potato growing.

That county used to be chiefly a potato area. But in the last three years 16,000 acres in the county have been removed from potato production, in compliance with federal crop reduction programs. This and other land has been put into the production of various other vegetables, some for freezing or canning at nearby processing plants and some for shipment to fresh food markets as far away as New Orleans. Lacking faith in the future of the potato, farmers are inclined to divert still more of their land to diversified truck cropping.

Transportation and storage problems used to cause the areas around centers of population to be devoted to truck gardens while large one-crop areas were found elsewhere. Those problems have been largely solved, so that truck gardens may be hundreds of miles from the cities they serve, and one-crop regions may be almost anywhere. But economic factors still work against one-crop farming, and give an advantage to the land, whether one farm, a county or a whole state, on which many crops are grown.

Books at Lower Cost

The experiment of publishing five new books simultaneously in standard cloth bindings and in low-cost paper bindings will be made by Simon and Schuster. From this experiment the publishing industry may get an added yardstick by which to measure the effect of price on the sales of what are classified as "good" new books. The production of cheap books in reduced size and strictly temporary paper bindings has tapped a great new market for literature ranging from trash to the classics. This innovation of simultaneous publication of new works in regular and cut-price editions, identical in size and printing, might open still another market.

Still at War

A sometimes overlooked fact is that the United States is still at war. No peace treaties have been signed with Germany and Japan, and the prospect for doing so is not good. Great Britain and France are in the same situation. All these countries have laws on the statute books which would expire automatically with the coming of official peace. A law forbidding trading with the enemy is one example, and it comes in to advantage in controlling the German and Japanese economy. On this account Washington recently discouraged British suggestions that the three Western nations get on with a peace treaty.

How little mere words mean! We are still officially at war with Germany and Japan, from whom just now we have nothing to fear, and an ally of Russia, from whom we seem to have much to fear.

How To Throw Big Public Dinner

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK —(P)— Today we take you for a behind-the-scenes peek at a great American industry.

It is the business of getting people to attend a public dinner. And right now it is one of the most active industries in the United States.

Public dinners fall into two broad classes:

1. The testimonial dinner.
2. The "worthy cause" dinner.

Getting people to fork out the cash for a ticket to a testimonial dinner is no problem at all. Generally the gent behind honored is so powerful that at least 1,000 people are afraid not to buy a ticket. This assures a full, attentive house.

Talking folks into going to a dinner for a "worthy cause" is quite another matter. Approached with a proposition of this sort, the average man will run for the nearest excuse. His mother-in-law has just come down with the measles or his wife has broken her arm playing canasta, and he has to take her to the hospital.

This reluctance has created a new specialist—the professional public dinner arranger.

Let us take a typical case. Suppose you are president of the society for relieving impoverishment among Eskimo architects. You want the society's annual dinner to be a success, so you go to a professional arranger.

"To begin with my fee will be $750," murmurs this dear old lady.

"What!" you bark. "why there are only 100 members in our society, and we were going to throw our clambake in Joe's joint. We only charge $2.00, and Joe lets us have his blue plate special for $1.50, so we only expect to clear four bits a head."

So the wise old lady says don't be foolish, nobody goes to a two buck affair anymore. She schedules the dinner at the Waldorf-Plaza Hotel and ups the entrance fee to $15 a duet.

"Who's going to make the main speech," she asks.

"Why, I was," you say lamely, and she remarks, "don't be pitiful. We gotta get some big name talkers."

"But who cares about helping the poor, downtrodden Eskimos architects?" you inquire. And she says leave that to her.

Well, it turns out that a Senator from Washington would be more than glad to discuss, "The Eskimos as our first line of defense." And a bigwig from the United Nations is just aching to give a half-hour report on "peace in the far snow—its wonderful."

And for entertainment? it turns out that a brilliant young composer has just finished a new piece called, "North Pole Serenade," and would love to try it out on the public at a charity banquet. That way he's sure of newspaper mention.

By now the dinner really sounds like something, but how are you going to sell all those $15 tickets?

"That's my job," says the professional arranger. "I'll just send out invitations to my selected list of tested dinner-goers, and we'll pack the ballroom."

What is a "tested dinner-goer?" well, believe it or not, in Manhattan there are thousands of people who make a career out of going to public dinners. Some want to run for office, others want to "keep my face before the public," and the rest just don't know what else to do after work.

So the dinner is a huge success. You clear $5,000. Then you discover there are only five really poverty-stricken Eskimo architects in the world.

You forward the money to them, they put stoves in their igloos, and the central heating gives them pneumonia—and in three weeks there are no more Eskimo architects.

You then disband your society. But that doesn't worry the professional dinner arranger. She is already busy on the annual banquet of the society for extending television to the Zulus.

Communism's Transmission Belt

By George Sokolsky

The CIO appointed a committee to investigate the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. The committee consisted of Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer, United Automobile, Aircraft, Agricultural Implement Workers of America; Joseph Curran, president, National Maritime Union of America.

This committee made a report on the mine, mill and smelter workers union, which showed the nature of the transmission belt for adherence to the will of a foreign power in union affairs. It says:

"... the Communist party in America is part of the worldwide Communist movement which seeks to organize workers into unions in various countries to spearhead a revolution for the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship. The first such dictatorship was established in Russia, and the entire movement is primarily dedicated to protecting and preserving this dictatorship."

It has found this to be true: "The testimony at the hearings, both oral and documentary, demonstrates conclusively to this committee, and the committee finds, that the policies and activities of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers are directed toward the achievement of the program and the purposes of the Communist party rather than the objectives set forth in the CIO constitution."

It is better to publish the words of this report rather than to comment upon them:

"This testimony was given to the committee by Homer Wilson and Kenneth Eckert. Mr. Wilson was a member of the union for ten years. He was vice-president. Mr. Eckert a member of its international executive board and at one time is a former member of the union's executive board and a former member of the Communist party. He had attended the Lenin School in Moscow and served in mine-mill as one of the members of the Communist party steering committee which determined, in consultation with Communist leaders, the policies which the union leadership would adopt for the union."

Both Wilson and Eckert made it perfectly clear to the committee that the fact that his union followed the Communist party line was not accidental. It was the result of complete domination of the union's leadership by the party. The party group within the union had a systematic working apparatus for making its decisions and for translating those decisions into union policy. At the top there was a party steering committee of four members. This committee determined Communist policy within the union. They did this in consultation with the leaders of the Communist party. Meetings were frequently held with Communist party leaders. In addition, there was a regular envoy from the Communist party who was designated as liaison man between mine-mill and the party.

"At meetings of this steering committee, the policies to be adopted by mine-mill were determined by these Communist leaders. Their decisions were then brought to the so-called 'Progressive Caucus' of the union, which contained all of the Communists and pro-Communist leaders of the union. All anti-Communist groups in the union were excluded from the caucus. The Communist decisions were invariably adopted by the caucus and were then brought before the official bodies of the union and adopted as union policy."

"This was the transmission belt by which the decisions of the Communist party leaders became decisions of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. The membership, of course, had a theoretical veto power. But the party's control of the union's newspaper, control of its organizational staff and control of its leadership, enabled the Communist party to conceal its dictation of union policy and thus to maintain its power over the union's affairs. The right of the union membership to control policy, given lip service to by the leadership, was thus frustrated."

This evidence was not contradicted. Approximately 90 per cent of the union's staff were Communists. The Communists in the union's leadership neither admitted nor denied their subservience to Soviet Russia.

Many Americans still do not believe that we are dealing with a violent, sinister enemy who works through our own sons, who corrupts them first and then uses and abuses them and turns them into traitors. It took the CIO many years to discover that; from 1935 to 1950. It took them too long.

Pernicious Anemia May Run in Family

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ANEMIA results whenever the coloring matter of the blood becomes insufficient and the number of red cells falls below normal. Anemia is not a disease in itself but rather a symptom produced by a wide variety of disorders, some mild, some very serious.

Usually anemias are divided into two groups, primary and secondary. In primary anemias there is a greater reduction in the amount of coloring matter than in the number of red cells. The opposite is true in primary anemia.

Secondary Anemia.

The most common form of secondary anemia is that produced by a lack of iron-containing foods in the diet. Such an anemia is, as a rule, quickly overcome by the administration of iron-containing preparations which the physician prescribes in the proper dose.

Formerly a severe secondary anemia, known as chlorosis, occurred rather frequently in women between 16 and 25 years of age. This condition was produced by inactive living, a lack of fresh air and sunshine, and an insufficient amount of vitamins and iron in the diet. It rarely occurs nowadays because of improvement in nutrition.

Will Produce Anemia

Of course, bleeding from any cause will produce anemia. Such bleeding may be produced, among other things, by hemorrhoids or piles or by ulcers of the stomach. Anemia of this type cannot be overcome without stopping the bleeding, but after the bleeding has been overcome, the administration of iron quickly builds up the blood again.

One of the most serious forms of primary anemia is pernicious anemia. It most often affects middle-aged persons and is more common in women than in men. It seems to run in families. In this disorder there is some loss of weight, and a waxy, lemon color to the skin. There is often sore tongue, loss of appetite, and stomach disorders. If the condition continues, it may affect the nervous system, with numbness and tingling of the hands and feet. The number of red cells is far below normal.

Formerly, this disorder was 100 per cent fatal. For more than 20 years, however, we have been able to save most such patients through the feeding of liver and the giving of liver extracts. Very recently, it was found that vitamin B-12 is infinitely more powerful than liver extract in the treatment of pernicious anemia. This vitamin evidently reacts with some substance in the stomach secretion to produce a third substance necessary for the proper development of red blood cells.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What would cause an eleven-year-old girl to have a dry cough? She is a nervous child.

Answer: A cough of this type may be due to nervousness; to infection in the lungs, trachea, or bronchial tube; to some type of allergy or sensitivity; or to a chronic sinus infection. Material dripping into the throat may also cause this trouble.

An examination by a throat specialist is advisable.

Strevey To Go To TB Confab

Three-Day Meeting Set at Granville

J. Paul Strevey, executive-secretary of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association, has received an invitation to attend a statewide workshop for TB executive-secretaries.

The workshop, scheduled for March 15-17 at the Granville Inn, Granville, is being called by John A. Louis, executive-secretary of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The three-day affair will open with an orientation session the first evening, and discussion leaders for the following day's program will be picked.

Most of the workshop's program will be built around questions and topics sent in by the executive-secretaries.

The subjects brought up by the TB county officers were separated and put in specific categories to facilitate decision-making and make the discussions fruitful and worthwhile.

The three areas that will be dealt with are "Program Development," "Health Education" and "Administration and Organization."

The first area includes "Case-finding," "School Health Programs," "Combining TB with other programs" and other topics.

The second area deals with "School Health Education Programs," "Community Health Education Programs," and "Health Education of Special Community Groups." The third area is about the TB organization itself.

Strevey has been requested to make up a preference list for the discussions. The program is a formidable one and the executive-secretaries will have the services of a few expert consultants available to help them through the subject matter.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—There's no pat answer to this one: How much pay did the coal miners lose by their lay-offs? And how long will it take them now, with the increase they won, to catch up?

There's no pat answer simply because miners are not people who always, except when striking, work a 5-day week, 52 weeks a year.

They've been away from the pits about 100 working days since last June 30 when their contract ended because they went on two full strikes and for many weeks, on union orders, worked only three days a week.

But this doesn't mean they would have worked those 100 days if there had been no dispute with the mine owners.

The miners' picture is not that cut and dried. President Truman and a number of senators have said the coal industry is sick. An operator spokesman denies it.

The demand for coal has gone down. More and more home owners and businesses have turned to oil and gas. For example:

In 1944, the peak of wartime travel, the railroads used 132,000,000 tons of coal. Rail travel has decreased since then and the roads have bought increasing numbers of oil-driven engines. In 1948 they used 95 million tons.

At the same time, because of technical improvements a miner can turn out more coal than he used to.

In 1936 a miner produced an average of 4 1-2 tons a day. Now he can produce nearly seven tons. So, while the demand for coal drops, the miners' ability to meet the demand has increased. He can produce more in shorter time.

If a miner worked five days a week, 52 weeks a year, he'd work 260 days a year. Actually, the number of his work days has been decreasing.

His average number of working days a year is edging down to the neighborhood of 200 a year. Example:

In 1936—199 days; 1937—193 days; 1938—162 days; 1939—when Europe's war started—178 days; 1940, when our defense program got started—202 days.

The miner's working days increased then to a peak of 278 in 1944, which was the peak of the war effort. Then: in 1945—261; 1946, when big strikes in other industries cut down coal demands—214; 1947—when industry picked up and we sent a lot of coal to Europe—234 days; in 1948, when Europe's need for coal dropped off—217 days. There are no exact figures for 1949.

So, instead of working five days a week for 52 weeks, the miners, with their 217 work days in 1948, worked only about 43 five-day weeks.

At that rate, if they worked five days one week, three another, 70 another, for 52 weeks they could wind up with the equivalent 43-five-day weeks of work.

Since last June 30, because of their dispute with the mine owners, the miners have worked many three-day weeks and then no weeks at all when they went on full strike.

But, for the reasons given above, it is impossible to say how much of that lost time would not have been lost if there had been no dispute with the owners.

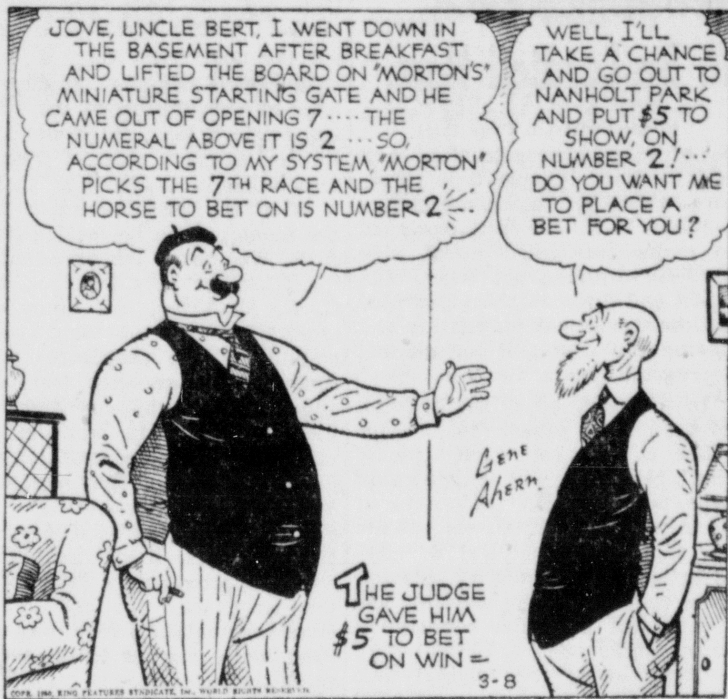

In fairness, keep that in mind in reading what follows. Suppose there had been enough work for the miners to keep them busy every working day since last June 30 when their old contract ended.

On that basis, you can do some figuring. Their daily pay was $14.05 a day.

Since they were away from the pits about 100 work days at $14.05 a day, this meant $1,405 each one didn't get. They've now won a pay increase of 70 cents a day.

Board and Room

So it will take them—if they work an average of 200 days a year—10 years to catch back the $1,405 they didn't get when they stayed away 100 days.

But, since they also won an additional 70 cents a day that will go into their pension-welfare fund and not directly to each miner, they've won a total increase of $1.40 a day, 70 cents pay, 70 cents pension-welfare.

Figuring that way, they'll earn back the $1,405 in five years of 200 working days a year.

As for the millions the mine owners lost their mine shut-downs, there's no way of telling how long it will take them to catch up. That depends in a large part on how much they now boost the price of coal.

Eagles Planning For Conference

Parade and Initiation Are Among Features

Members of the Eagles Lodge here today were making plans for a big time at Delaware March 25 and 26.

Worthy President Verian said a "large delegation of members and a class of candidates will be there for the two-day zone welfare conference at that time.

Heading the Fayette Aerie contingent, the president said, would be the five official delegates. He did not say, however, who the delegates would be or make a public statement concerning alleged instructions from the head of the department.

Other members of the force reportedly are considering an appearance before the Circleville council to present some first-hand information about alleged law violators whom they are not disturbing, reports indicate.

whether they have been named yet.

The candidates, the exact number not yet announced, are to be inducted into the order at a mass initiation on Sunday, the last day of the conference.

Plans call for a big parade through the downtown streets of Delaware Sunday, the president said. It is scheduled for shortly after noon and is to be replete with bands, drum and bugle corps, drill teams and ladies auxiliaries.

The initiation of all the candidates in the zone is to be held following the parade. The ceremonies are slated for the hall in the aerie of the host Eagles with the degree team adjudged the best in the zone exemplifying the ritual.

Verian said the candidates would be treated to a performance of a "crack drill team."

State and grand aerie officers are to attend the affair. Several notables of the lodge are to speak during the concentration.

The host aerie has sent word to officers of the lodge here that special entertainment has been arranged for visitors on both Saturday and Sunday nights.

"O God, Stir The Cities Of America Again!" "O, Lord Revive Thy Work."

Former President Calvin Coolidge. "I can conceive of no adequate remedy for the evils which beset Society, except through the influences of Religion. There is no form of Education which will not fail. There is no form of Government which will not fail. There is no form of reward which will not fail. We do not need more national development; we need more spiritual development. We do not need more intellectual power; we need more spiritual power. We do not need more knowledge; we need more of the things that are unseen."

Bureau of investigation records show that in the past ten years murder has increased 47 percent, Rape 69 percent. Assault 71 percent. Sex crime, other than rape, 67 percent. Drunkenness 175 percent. Prostitution 175 percent. This record is taken from the ages ten to eighteen.

"Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." "Is not my word like as a fire? Saith the Lord; and like a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces? Jer. 33:3 and 23:29.

WHY A REVIVAL? If there was ever a time in the history of the Christian Church when there was need to cry unto God in the words of the Psalmist, "Wilt thou not revive us again, that thy people may rejoice in thee?" it is certainly now. No thinking person will attempt to deny it. The daily press, the magazines, and the reports of committees and organizations which have to deal with the crime situation of our country, agree that crime has reached appalling proportions, that it is still rapidly on the increase; and that, if not checked, it will carry our nation into anarchy and destruction. This generation in this day and age in which we now live knows nothing about the great revivals of the past, under D. L. Moody, Spurgeon, Whitefield, Charles and John Wesley and many others. This generation (and may God bless them) knows nothing about those great revivals, the Billy Sunday revivals ended almost thirty years ago and they were only a sprinkling of the revival spirit which had covered America and crossed the sea.

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget; lest we forget." OUR GODLY PAST. Back in the year of our Lord, 1620 there came to our shores a devoted band of Pilgrims. Turning their backs to warm homes, Christian friends, and other comforts of civilization they faced the hardships of a bleak and untamed wilderness, and the rigors of a New England winter—why? that they might be privileged to worship God after the dictates of their own consciences. In other words, they turned away from "things" and put God first in their lives. Is it any wonder that God has prospered us, their descendants, into the greatest nation on the face of the earth? "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Matthew 6:33.

OUR GODLESS PRESENT. But what a contrast now! The high spiritual standards of our fathers are a thing of the past. The American home has broken down and the sad thing about it all is that Godless men do not appreciate the imminence of destruction. Battered with pride and filled with self-conceit and "ego," their perspective is fatally distorted. They credit the blessings of the past to man, not God. How then can God be else to them than a myth—and why should men obey God's laws? as a consequence of Christ rejection, the entire fabric of civilization is therefore crumbling at its very foundation. Evidences of this breakdown are everywhere apparent. We will mention but a few main evidences of man's disintegration as follows: 1. Spiritually—with modernism and disunion in the churches; fear of revivals on the part of the saved and the unsaved; and a revival of spiritism throughout the world, as the main indications. 2. Personally—with pleasure seeking, breaking of the Sabbath, cigarettes among women, and the vilest habits among men. 3. Educationally—with the evolutionary lie and animal self-expression taught in the text books and the schools. 4. Socially—with money spending madness, luxury, dancing, drinking and unspeakable social crime. 5. Morally—the evils mentioned above are fast dulling the moral sense. Integrity of character and credit are crumbling. 6. Economically—the conflict between capital and labor between Communism and our form of government is sufficient proof of shattered conditions. 7. Governmentally—a growing disregard for law and order, as the new generation comes into power. This can only result in anarchy.

THE REMEDY IS REVIVAL. The intercession of Christians alone can supply the answer. Will you be one? God is always searching for intercessors—can He depend on you? "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

"I know of a world that is sunk in shame, where hearts off faint and tire; but I know of a Name, a precious Name, that can set that world on fire; It's sound is sweet, its letters flame; I know of a Name, a precious Name, 'tis Jesus."

Christian friends do you want these messages continued? I have no way of knowing except you write me. I shall be glad to hear from you and please remember I have no way of knowing except you do write.

Yours for a mighty blood washing, sin cleansing, soul saving, self forgetting, Christ remembering revival in our land.

High Paying Jobs Are Open

Akron Firm after $9,000-a-Year Man

Even though more than 200,000 persons are registered for work in the Ohio public employment centers, a steady demand exists for certain qualified persons to fill attractive paying job.

Any Fayette Countians who come within the scope of the special jobs will find salaries ranging from $4,000 to $9,000 per year.

These and other jobs are available through any BUC local employment centers without charge.

Experience and education are most important in obtaining the higher-paying jobs. Although many of the jobs are within the medium salary range, several promise steady advancement to competent applicants.

A qualified sales appliance manager is still being sought by an Akron firm who offers a yearly salary of $9,000. Applicants must be thoroughly experienced in the sales field and be able to handle sales crews on a nationwide basis. Despite previous announcements applicants have failed to meet the requirements.

An ornamental iron worker is offered a salary of $2.50 per hour with prospects of a raise after the first two weeks. A part of living expenses and five cents a mile travel allotment is offered to a thoroughly experienced applicant. He must be familiar with non-ferrous metals and be able to supervise and work with men on the job.

Women too are sharing in high-paying jobs. A woman public relations specialist is wanted in the Cleveland area. As community relations director, with a bachelor's degree, she must be capable of assuming responsibility through the media of newspaper, radio and public speaking. The salary is $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

License Plates Must Be Clear

Motorists have been warned by George Mingle, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol, not to display lodge emblems or other insignia which might conceal part of their auto license plates.

He points out that the law requires that the license plates must be kept unobstructed and the rear plate must be illuminated by a white light at night.

Highway patrolmen have been finding an unusually large number of persons who are using various insignia on their license plates, and they have been notified to remove them without delay.

The chief of the state patrol states that it is important to have license plates free of obstruction for the detection and prevention of crime.

Campaign Here Against Drivers Running Lights

Police Chief Valden Long said Wednesday that a drive is being made here to halt drivers from running of red lights. He pointed out that three arrests have been made this week for crashing the red light on Columbus Avenue near Eastside School.

"We intend to keep a check on school lights in particular, and stop some of the violations," Chief Long said. He mentioned the added dangers which result when drivers run through red lights at school houses.

There has been a noticeable increase in red light crashing here, and too many drivers are in the habit of following the vehicle ahead of them whether they run a red light or not, Chief Long said.

New Officers Elected At 4-H Club Meeting

The Busy Bee Homemakers 4-H club members today were considering a new name for their organization as they started another year under the presidency of Janet Parrett.

The decision on the new name is to be made at the next meeting.

Other officers of the club, elected at the club's last meeting at the home of Barbara Barker, were Barbara Barker, vice president; Jane Washburn, secretary and Jerry Bachelor, treasurer. Clara Mathews, Frances Wilson and Shirley Dumford were chosen for the recreation leaders.

Mrs. Ralph Barker and Mrs. Robert Bachelor are the advisors. The club's projects were outlined by the 15 members, with Mrs. Norma Campbell, the county home demonstration agent, there to offer suggestions. The projects included cooking, sewing and outdoor cookery.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Barker.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Clara and Donna Mathews Mar. 15 at 7:30 P.M.

Projects Are Started By American Girl Club

Members of the American Girl 4-H club today had their garments all cut out for their clothes-making project and were ready for the next step.

They cut out the material at their last meeting, which was held in the basement of the Church of God on Harrison Street.

To cement their program and streamline their business sessions, the members answered the roll call with a suggestion for the club's officers.

A paper on care of the hair and hands was read by Shirley Williams.

The club's next meeting is to be held at the home of Beverly Cross-white next Monday at 4:45 P.M.

'Mom and Pop' Whiteside End 20 Years of Loyal Service

Mr. and Mrs. David Whiteside

Mr. and Mrs. David Whiteside, mom and pop to hundreds of youngsters from broken homes and to scores of orphans for the past 20 years, will soon be leaving the biggest family anyone in Fayette County can have.

They are retiring to the privacy of their own home and leaving the lives of some 60 youngsters now at the Fayette County children's home to the safeguard of the new superintendent of the home, Norman Armbrust, and his wife, Lorie.

Leaving all the memories, the smiles and the tears won't be easy for the kindly thoughtful Whitesides, who have taken the place of parents in the minds and hearts of hundreds of youngsters.

"Won't they miss you, when you leave?" the Whitesides were asked recently when they were contemplating leaving the home.

"Miss us; we will miss them," the graying superintendent added quickly, pointing to dozens of pictures of youngsters who had been raised through most of their childhood at the home and who had later won their spurs outside.

Have Two Families

Near the pictures of the youngsters at the home were photographs of another Whiteside family--his five grandchildren.

Many of the youths who were raised at the children's home have been graduated from Bloomingburg High School and have gone out into life, following vocations, getting married and raising families of their own.

During the war several of the young men who once lived at the home served in the service. One out of the group was killed in action.

Some of the boys and girls have gone on to receive advanced schooling and now hold professional positions.

All who lived at the home got the warm affection of the Whitesides and feel deeply indebted to the pair for the guidance they got during their formative school days.

Whitesides Always Practical

Sometimes some of the "alumni" of the home drop back to say hello to the Whitesides and visit with them. Sometimes-but not often--some of those who lived at the home come back and hold their weddings there so that the Whitesides can share in this big event in their lives.

They always get a friendly twinkle from Dave's eyes, some practical encouragement from the pair and then go on their way.

Some may recall that there wasn't much they could "put over" on the elderly couple, who seemed to know a lot of the answers. But usually any advice which the Whitesides handed out was sound and practical.

During their many years at the home the Whitesides have seen many changes and many new faces. They have been instrumental in getting some of the best advantages for youngsters without parental support.

When they turn the job of being mom and pop over to the Armbrusts, they won't be leaving the youngsters to a pair of strangers. The Armbrusts have met most of the youngsters at McNair Church and feel happy to be able to take over the biggest family in Fayette County.

New Armco Plant To Be Located Here

be of all-steel construction and is a standard Pioneer-type structure which the company manufactures. It will be fully equipped to make corrugated metal pipe used for draining highways, railroads and airports. Also provided will be equipment for coating and paving the pipe and for making corrugated pipe arches.

In addition, an office building covering 2,000 square feet of floor space will be constructed facing the highway. It will be a Steelox type building also manufactured by Armco which controls patents for this unique method of construction. Thousands of Steelox farm and commercial buildings are located all over the country, it was pointed out.

The cost of the original unit of the Armco Drainage and Metal Products plant here, including the equipment and the office building, is estimated to be at least $250,000, Ives said.

A. H. Hutton will be the project engineer in charge of constructing the new Armco plant. Hutton was formerly production engineer of the O'Neill Division of Armco Drainage and Metal Products at South Bend, Indiana. He was graduated as a civil engineer from the University of Cincinnati. After joining Armco, he became a turn foreman in the company's Fabricating Division in Middletown. Because of his engineering training and his experience in fabricating steel, he then became a member of the engineering department of Armco Drainage and Metal Products.

Steel To Be Shipped In

The steel to manufacture corrugated pipe will be supplied by Armco Steel Corporation's Middletown and Ashland, Kentucky, plants.

Ives expressed his thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and people of Washington C. H. for their assistance in helping Armco Drainage and Metal Products to secure a suitable site and work out the many details.

"Everyone has been anxious to help in every possible way. We appreciate it very much and look forward to many years of friendly association in Washington C. H."

After the announcement that the plant was to be located here, A. E. Weatherly, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, and C. E. McCarley, the executive-secretary, expressed their appreciation of the cooperation the Chamber had received from city and county officials and the utilities companies in working out plans for the plant and making the site available. They especially mentioned the civic spirit and cooperation that had been given by Mr. and Mrs. Ray West, from whom approximately 19 acres of the tract was obtained. "They were very helpful," McCarley said "and were anxious to do everything they could."

Trade Balance

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)--Syria and the Lebanon are worried about their growing unfavorable trade balance with France. They imported 9,460,000,000 French francs worth of goods from France in 1949, compared to 3,645,000,000 the previous year. Exports to France totaled 279,000,000 French francs in value in 1949, compared to 631,000,000 in 1948.

1950-51 Schedule Set; Jordan Elected Captain

John Jordan has been elected honorary captain of the WHS basketball team, Coach Steve Lewis announced today.

The Lions elected a team captain for each game through the regular season and then, in this post-season session, named teammate Jordan to the honorary post.

Russ Archer, with an average of .531, won the free throw award, Lewis said. Basketball and football letters and awards will be made at an assembly program in the early spring.

New 19-game Schedule

The 1950-51 basketball schedule was also released by Lewis. The head basketball coach and Charles Mustine, faculty manager of athletics, just completed the final details on a 19-game schedule.

The schedule for next season looks just about as tough as the one just ended, with Dayton Kiser, Gallion, Delaware, Hillsboro and Linden-McKinley replacing Lima South, Findlay, Portsmouth East, Dayton Roosevelt and Columbus West.

The Lions will open at home against Xenia Central on December 1 and will play ten home games, with nine set for the road. Fans here will not see the Lions during January, 1951, until they return toward the end of the month for one home match.

Coach Ron Guinn's WHS Reserves likewise face as tough, or even a tougher, schedule. They played just 13 games this year, but will see action in 17 games during 1950-51. They will play the Reserve teams of all the WHS

Implement League Race Is Tightened

Both of the pace setters in the Implement League were handed setbacks in Tuesday night's bowling at Bowland.

The Sons Grillers, in the No. 1 spot by the narrowest of margins, lost two to the Denton crew and the second place Warner Servicemen dropped two to the VFW.

It was the handicaps that upset the leaders. The Servicemen outscored the VFW, 2669 to 2386 without handicaps, and the Grillers led the Dentons, 2645 to 2435 without handicap.

The Mt. Sterling outfit made a clean sweep of its match with Carpenter's hardwaremen and the Wackmen won the last two from the Farm Bureau after dropping the opener.

Cage Tourney Fields Dwindle

Only 141 Teams Left From 1130 Starters

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, March 8 —(AP)—The toll is terrific in Ohio's High School Basketball Tournament. The starting field of 1130 teams is down to 141.

Of the 904 Class B quintets which started county play three weeks ago, only 77 are still on deck in the district meets. Only 64 of the 226 Class A clubs have survived little more than a week of sectional-district play.

Last night's abbreviated 20-game schedule was featured by defending Class A champion Hamilton Public's 53-49 victory over Cincinnati Roger Bacon, and Cincinnati Purcell's 50-35 conquest of Walnut Hills at Cincinnati.

Hamilton, rated second in the Associated Press final poll, and Purcell, third-placer in the balloting, battle tonight for a regional berth. The champs have won 19 and lost three, while Purcell has a 21-1 record.

Trojans Win Easily

Portsmouth Trojans, fifth-placers in the poll, smothered Portsmouth East by 67-34 at Athens for their 13th win in 17 starts and will meet Lancaster's Golden Gales Thursday for a district finals berth. Lancaster grabbed its 16th in 20 starts with a 62-48 nod over Nelsonville.

Steubenville's Big Red and Dover reached the Eastern District finals at New Concord. Steubenville running its record to 16-8 with a 51-39 win over Zanesville. Dover moved to a 12-8 standing by beating Tiltonsville.

In Class B at Celina, Minster whipped Willshire 47-36 to reach the finals against tonight's winner of the Delphos St. John-Wapakoneta St. John contest. Minster's record is now 21-2. The defending Class B king, Delphos St. John, has a 24-1 record and is favored to gain the finals over the St. Joe club which lost seven of 26 starts.

Salem In Finals

Salem, with a 23-2 mark, meets Leesville, 24-3, in Friday's Class B finals at Bucyrus. They gained the final bracket last night as Salem smacked Sulphur Springs 54-43, and Leesville won over Mt. Cory-Rawson by 56-34.

London and Worthington moved into one final bracket in the Central District at Westerville by sweeping a pair of Parochial Schools aside London (17-6) was a 53-51 winner over Columbus St. Marys, and Worthington (19-9) defeated Newark St. Francis 43-33.

The Hamilton Public-Cincinnati Purcell contest holds tonight's Class A spotlight, but there are other eye-catchers. Among them are the Springfield Public-Sidney clash at Troy, and the Akron Garfield-Cuyahoga Falls game at Akron.

Class B offers some outstanding tilts, in addition to the Delphos St. John-Wapakoneta St. Joe affair. Among the headlines are Minford (20-4) vs Marshall (21-2) at Waverly; Corning (21-4) vs Gloucester (19-3) at Athens; Marysville (21-1) vs Utica (20-5), and Plain City (21-7) vs Ashville (19-3) at Westerville; Scio (24-0) vs Strasburg (21-5) at Steubenville, and Avon Lake (18-1) vs Champion (24-0) at Kent.

Nine times Rogers (Doc) Cramer went to bat more than 600 times in a season--a major league record.

Bob Feller's two no-hit and ten-one hit games are a major league record for most low-hit games in a career.

Pat Harder of the Chicago Cardinals and Gene Roberts of the New York Giants tied for the scoring title with 102 points apiece.

Most extra points kicked by any National Football League in 1949 were 45 by Pat Harder of the Chicago Cardinals.

Carl Furillo of the Brooklyn Dodgers batted .431 during the period from Aug. 8 to the end of the 1949 season.

The New York Yankees have not finished out of the first division of the American League since 1925.

Heavyweights promise plenty of action when the 13th NCAA boxing tournament is held at Penn State March 30-April 1.

Co. 'M' Meets Bloomingburg

Rifes-Legion in Thursday Finale

The vastly-improved Company "M" cagers will be shooting to snap Bloomingburg's unbeaten string of wins when the two teams meet in the opener of the Cage League twin-bill Thursday night.

In the second game on the Armory floor, the American Legion will face the second-place Rifes team.

Thursday's games will open the second round of play in the Cage League, with Bloomingburg the only club to come through the first round of play without defeat.

In their first battle, Bloomingburg smeared Company "M" by a 51-36 score-but they'll be facing a much different team this time. Company "M" suffered a 49-20 loss to the Legion, before welcoming three newcomers to the squad.

Co. "M" "New Look"

The Company "M" team with the new look gave the Rifes team a run for its money last Monday night, losing only after a stiff tussle that saw Rifes win in the last seconds, 63-62. That's the added scoring power the league-leaders will be contending with come Thursday, 7:30 P. M.

In the nightcap, a toss-up would probably be the best guess anyone could make.

Rifes edged the Legion in their first encounter, 44-41, pulling the game out of the fire in the last quarter and winning in the final minute.

The Legionnaires bounced back from that game to bury Company "M" and then took the floor without their mainstay, Jim McGowan, in losing to Bloomingburg.

But the Legion is expected to be at full strength, as is Rifes, for the coming battle. The finale should start about 8:30 P. M.

Since play has been getting a little rough lately, Coach Fred Pierson, the league director, will referee Thursday night's games. A brief meeting of team managers will be held at the Armory at 7 P. M. Thursday.

Mystery of Minozo Partially Solved

TUCSON, Ariz., Mar. 8-(AP)—Cleveland's Indians could get down to real training today. The big mystery of "where is Orestes Minozo" was over.

The Cuban outfielder, nicknamed Minnie the Masher, sauntered into the clubhouse yesterday, unannounced.

Ever since the camp opened a week ago, Spud Goldstein, the Tribe's road secretary, had been trying to locate him. All he could learn was that he was somewhere in Cuba, waiting for a plane.

"Where have you been?" trainer Wally Bock asked.

"Just fine," replied Minozo, who speaks little English.

Then Goldstein came in. "No transportation," Minnie told him.

"Don't tell me that," said the secretary. "There's a lot of planes flying."

"Aw, they no wanna take me," the Cuban came back.

And there the matter rested, at least for the time being.

Big Dale Mitchell singled as a pinch hitter yesterday to win a intrasquad game, 4 to 3, for the Lemons in the seventh and final inning. The other aggregation was dubbed the Fellers.

Commercial League Lead Deadlocked

When the Mark Constructors dropped the first and last games of their match with the Brown & Brookmeyer outfit Tuesday night at Bowland, they dropped their grip on first place in the Commercial League.

For, the Kaufmen climbed into a tie with them at the top of the heap by winning two out of three from the Sunlights.

Bob Carman set a fast pace for the Constructors with a 573 total that ran the team score up to 2451 without handicap. The B & B crew tallied 2347 in the match that was nip and tuck all the way.

The Kaufmen outscored the Sunlights, 2556 to 2239 without handicaps, but were nosed out by 19 pins in the last game. Consistency marked the Kaufmen's game.

The Helfrich Marketeers kept in the race by winning two out of three from the Farm Bureau, thanks to Carr's 607 total.

Lowe turned in a 601 total to spark the Cudaby Packers' two-out-of-three win from the Hallidays as they ran up the high total of the evening--a neat 2658.

With the average horse doing away with 30 pounds of hay a day, thoroughbred owners spend $7, 686,900 for the hay consumed by the 21,616 horses in training during 1949.

DAVIS-ELKINS college basketball enthusiasts believe they have the champion single game scorer of the season in Harold (Hap) Huey. Harold scored 60 points in a game against Morris Harvey college. (International)

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

"I LURED Dustin," Rourke declared, after half the drink had warmed his stomach. "Thirty years of newspaper work and I still get a sick feeling in my belly when I break the news to a husband or wife... or a mother and father," he added, "like in the Kathleen Deland kidnapping case. The Dustins had only been married two years, Mike."

Shayne chuckled. "You're a romanticist at heart, Tim. That's why one of these days you'll write a great American novel. Yeh. The bracelet was an anniversary present to Celia Dustin. How did Dustin take her death?"

Rourke was moodily silent for a moment, then he said, "Without oreaking down. A tough westerner like Dustin wouldn't. But he is convinced his wife didn't have anything to do with the theft, no matter what sort of case Painter tries to make out. He'll fight any man who does believe it, broken right hand and all."

"Then he doesn't believe she doped him intentionally?"

Rourke shifted his position in the chair and said, "He doesn't see how to get around that. He figures she decided to take a hand in it and didn't want to waken him. He thinks she remembered some clue that she wanted to tell you."

"Sounds reasonable," said Shayne moodily. "Do you know a fellow named Bankhead here on the Beach?"

"J. Donald Bankhead?" Rourke's torso came forward and his eyes glowed. "What about him?"

"That's what I'm asking you."

Rourke settled back. "He has a curio shop down on South Beach. Mostly junk for tourists, but I've seen some expensive Oriental stuff mixed in with the rest. Nice enough guy, I'd say."

"All those junk shops do a big business during the tourist season. You know how it is. So far as I know, his nose is clean."

"It's dirty right now," Shayne told him sharply. "His so-called gardener and chauffeur and some third party pulled the Dustin job last night in Bankhead's limousine."

"Is that straight?" Rourke jumped up and started pulling off his pajama jacket.

"Off the record and for your information only," Shayne said swiftly and harshly. "He knows I'm on to him, but I haven't any proof yet. He may try to brazen it out. I think he'll try to get rid of the bracelet if he hasn't already unloaded it. You've still got a little drag with the Beach force, haven't you?"

"A little," Rourke agreed, and put his skinny arms back into the pajama sleeves. "Tagging along with you hasn't raised my stock with Painter's men." He sat down.

Shayne took his drink in one gulp. "Earl Randolph, dressed as he had been when Shayne saw him long swallow, and with his eyes half-closed looking at the glass said, "Could you pass along enough of a hint to get Bankhead tailed and a check on his movements last night?"

"That shouldn't be too hard," Shayne put the glass down, got up and said, "I'll see you in your office later... to pick up replies to those telegrams we sent." He stalked out to his car and drove across the bay to the mainland.

When he entered the small foyer of Earl Randolph's apartment building he pushed the button beneath Randolph's name and held it down for a long time. There was no answer.

Under a card which read I-A SUPERINTENDENT the name of E. Palmino was written in small letters. Shayne pressed the button and got an answering click of the door immediately. He went in. A door at the right opened and a gray-haired man came out. He wore slippers and trousers and an undershirt, and his suspenders hung down from his waist. He held a lathered shaving brush in his hand and asked gruffly, "Can I help you?"

"Do you know whether Mr. Randolph is in?"

"Three D? Did you try his button?"

"I did. He doesn't answer."

"Then he is not in," the man said.

"I'm a little worried about him," said Shayne. "I think we'd better go up and see if he's all right."

The man's black eyes widened. "You mean he is sick? I saw him in the hall yesterday and he was all right."

"I mean," Shayne said harshly, "there's been one murder and I don't want another one."

"Mur-der?"

"Or suicide. I'm a detective. Get your master key and let's go up."

The superintendent's jaw fell open. "Sure. If you think..." He scurried away and returned with a key-ring.

"Mr. Randolph is a good tenant," he said worriedly as they got in the small elevator and he pressed the "3" button. "A very friendly gentleman. What you say about mur-der?"

"One of his clients, insurance," they reached the third floor and he followed the superintendent, his suspenders still dangling, to Earl Randolph's room.

The door opened easily and the gray-haired man stood back, frightened and cringing, to let the tall detective enter first.

Shayne saw Randolph's Panama hat on the rack where it had been when he visited the insurance man last night. He pointed it out to the little man and said grimly, "His hat is here, all right," and stalked on toward the daybed behind the littered card table.

Earl Randolph, dressed as he had been when Shayne saw him last, lay on the daybed, half-way on his side, face downward, with one leg trailing off. The overhead lights were still burning and an empty glass lay on the floor where it had dropped from his fingers when he collapsed.

Shayne caught Randolph's shoulder and turned him over, lifting the dangling leg with his left hand and putting it on the daybed. The insurance man's mouth was open and he was breathing heavily.

"Is he dead?" the superintendent asked anxiously.

"Yeh. Dead drunk," said Shayne angrily. "Help me get him in the bathroom."

The superintendent eagerly grabbed Randolph's legs while Shayne lifted his shoulders. They carried the heavy man into the bathroom and propped him in the tub at an angle where the spray of the shower would strike him on the head and torso. The superintendent held his body erect while Shayne drew the curtain and turned the shower on.

Randolph stirred under the impact of cold water and tried drunkenly to move his head out of the way.

Shayne said, "I'll get him straightened out. Thanks for helping me. You can go and shave now."

The superintendent backed away uncertainly, then turned and ran from the bathroom muttering to himself.

Shayne heard the door close. He stood back from the shower, but drew the curtain aside a little to grimly watch the man struggle to emerge from the coma that held him.

Randolph was opening and closing his mouth, twisting his head to escape the stream of cold water, inching his way back dazedly in the tub, but Shayne kept moving the swivel head of the shower to keep the full force on his head and face.

Presently Randolph opened his eyes. "Shut it off," he muttered thickly. "I'm drowning."

Shayne shut off the water and said, "Stand up and we'll get your clothes off." He reached in and supported the drenched man, unbuckled his belt and shirt and helped him to get out of the soggy clothes, leaving them in the bathtub.

Randolph clung to Shayne as he stepped from the tub and staggered and collapsed again, his head hanging in his quivering hands.

Shayne said, "Take it easy. Try to rub yourself down while I make some coffee."

He left the sagging man and went through the living room to a tiny kitchenette and found the necessary things to make coffee. While it was brewing, he went into the living room and straightened the daybed.

Farm Group Hears Talks

Conservation Government Topics

"Wise use of land without waste" was the definition of conservation given members of Union Township Farm Bureau No. 1 at their March meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bush.

W. L. Henry, assistant soil planner of this district, was the chief speaker and outlined the history of soil conservation.

Henry told the group that one-quarter of the crop land in Ohio has lost its top soil, one-quarter has lost half of its top soil and the remaining one-half of the crop land is in good condition.

The subject of streamlining the government was discussed by Mrs. Helen Frazier. According to Mrs. Frazier, we are willingly going into debt for $257 billion for our freedom and way of life. She said 70 percent of this goes for past, present and future wars and, in view of the Communist threat, many feel that we should not question this.

The Hoover Commission found many overlapping, duplications and conflicting policies in the Department of Agriculture that should be rectified, Mrs. Frazier was quoted as saying. This group believes it could do with less government supervision.

She said that a commission modeled after the Hoover Commission is operating in Ohio and advised that we follow its workings carefully.

It was also stated at the meeting that "we believe inequalities in property-appraising exist in counties other than Fayette and local people are most competent to fix values on our property."

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Guests at the meeting were W. L. Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bush.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Campbell.

Last Rites for Mrs. Flora Flax

Funeral services for Mrs. Flora Flax were held at 2 P. M. Tuesday at the Morrow Funeral Home in Jeffersonville, with Rev. Elmo B. Higham, pastor of the Pleasant View Church of Christ, in charge.

Rev. Higham read the memoirs, the hymns, "Crossing the Bar" and "Old Rugged Cross", the song, "Going Home", delivered the sermon and offered prayer. Rev. C. P. Miller, pastor of the Jeffersonville Methodist Church who assisted Rev. Higham, read the scripture and offered prayer.

Flower girls were Mrs. C. C. Funk, Mrs. Delbert Marshall, and Mrs. Helen Porter.

Pallbearers were Clint Turner, Albert Turner, Leo Turner, J. A. Flax, Robert Shafer and John Stottlemeyer.

There were many persons at the funeral. Burial was made in the Fairview Cemetery in Jeffersonville.

Mrs. C. L. Dougherty Dies in Wilmington

Mrs. Mary Alice Dougherty, 69, former resident of Fayette County, and widow of Charles Luther Dougherty, died, Wednesday at 8:40 A. M. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Nissen of Wilmington.

Mrs. Dougherty had been in failing health a year and seriously ill three weeks.

She was a member of the Wilmington Christian Union Church. Surviving are six daughters, including Mrs. Helen Dunn of Jeffersonville, and Mrs. Elsie Deatley of Leesburg. Also a half brother, 19 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren survive.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence in Wilmington, Saturday at 2 P. M. and burial will be made at Bourneville under the direction of the Fisher Funeral Home of Wilmington.

Friends may call at the residence after 2 P. M. Thursday.

Midwest Storms

stranded in the small western Iowa community.

The snow and strong winds struck over parts of eastern Kansas while the western part of the state was hit by a dust storm.

The strong winds also stirred up huge dust clouds in Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Texas. But the weather bureau said the soil-searing winds in Texas should abate today when the weather front passes into the Gulf of Mexico.

The winds hung a haze of dust from the tip of the Panhandle to the black farm lands of east Texas last night. Farmers and ranchers expressed concern that the storms may cause considerable damage to crops.

Scattered prairie fires destroyed valuable grassland near Pawhuska, Okla. County Agent A. A. Sewell expressed fear nearly 100,000 acres, used for feeding market-bound Texas cattle, might be lost.

Junior Class Play To Have Two Casts

Plans for two casts and two performances for the junior class play, "The Baby Sitter," today were approaching the final phases for the Friday presentations in the high school auditorium.

To bring more members of the class into the annual event, one cast is to present the comedy in the afternoon and a different cast is to present it in the evening.

The afternoon performance is primarily for students. Classes are to be dismissed immediately after convening at 1:50 P. M. There will be no admission charge for them.

Adults may come to the afternoon performance, but they will have to pay the regular admission and hunt for seats for the student body pretty well fills the auditorium.

The evening performance is for the public.

The four "home room teachers" of the class are to select the two casts late Wednesday. The teachers are Jack White, Mrs. Madonna Gordon, Miss Edith Rammage and Miss Sara Keck.

Just so there will be never a dull moment, the "Baby Sitting Chorus," is to sing between the acts of both performances. The numbers selected for the chorus are, appropriately, "Baby Face," and "I Said My Pajamas."

Washington C. H. Would Benefit From Fire Pact

The Greenfield council this afternoon adopted four identical ordinances for mutual assistance of its fire department in emergency calls to Washington C. H., Leesburg, Hillsboro and Bainbridge.

The Greenfield major recently applied for such a pact with Washington C. H., and the council here placed an ordinance on its first reading, with intention of adopting it when Greenfield council adopted its mutual aid ordinance.

It is expected the pact ordinance will be passed here Wednesday night, so that the arrangement can be made effective with out delay.

The contracts provide for mutual assistance for a three-year period, starting March 15. Authority to send equipment is vested in the city manager and fire chief.

The Greenfield contracts are identical to the one carried in the ordinance submitted to council here at the last meeting.

Trains Will Be Restored Soon

Trains one and two on the D. T. & I. Railroad, withdrawn during the coal strike, will be restored March 10 on the former schedule, it was stated Wednesday.

This means that mail express and passenger service on the two trains will be resumed on that date, the coach being attached to the two freights.

No announcement has been received as to when the two passenger trains withdrawn from the B. & O. as result of the strike, will be restored, but this is expected within a day or two.

German Surrender

Gen. George C. Marshall, and Admiral Ernest King there. They called Prime Minister Churchill, of Britain, on a direct wire into No. 10 Downing Street, London. Churchill told them that through the American minister in Stockholm, H. V. Johnson, he had learned that Himmler had asked the late Count Bernadotte, of Sweden, to make a peace offer to Great Britain and the U. S.

Himmler said the German government was ready to surrender all troops on the western front.

Leahy writes: "Churchill reported that Himmler said he was speaking for the German government because of the incapacity of Hitler, who had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, and was not expected to live for more than a few days.

"Truman told the prime minister that America could agree only to an unconditional surrender on all fronts in agreement with Russia and Britain. Churchill said he was anxious to end the war. Truman said he was too but that America had to stand by its commitments."

Firemen Answer Call

with the added income!

Everybody wants wartime excise taxes repealed. The only reason it hasn't been done is that Uncle Sam needs the money they bring in. But Congress can replace this excise income simply by requiring tax-exempt commercial enterprises--such as Co-operatives, Foundations and Trusts--to pay federal income taxes on their huge profits. This will produce more than ONE BILLION DOLLARS in brand new revenue which can be used to REPEAL WARTIME EXCISE TAXES. Tell your Congressman you want him to TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST AND USE THE NEW INCOME TO REPEAL WARTIME EXCISE TAXES--NOW!
